“Organizational Wellbeing & Resiliency”

The CRTNJ is hosting a Wellness Webinar to be presented by AJ Gallagher & Co., titled “Organizational Wellbeing & Resiliency”. We believe this presentation is of interest and importance to all employees in your companies since it pertains to how COVID has affected us both in our personal lives as well as our business relationships. While we realize that not all employees can attend, we would hope that your management and HR personnel would gain some insights as to how our employees are reacting to the unseen stresses that COVID may have brought to them. It also deals with how we as employers can understand and manage the changes that our employees are realizing.

Presentation will include issues related to stress and burnout are eroding resiliency, wellbeing and employee engagement. Join us as we discuss the threats to both personal and organizational wellbeing, the relationship between resiliency, burnout, engagement and health, and the future of work.
