Presentation:

AI for Contractors: From Curiosity to Construction Site

Artificial Intelligence is rapidly transforming the construction industry—from automating reports to identifying project risks before they happen. In this live, interactive session, architect and forensic expert Christopher D. Ling, AIA will demonstrate how contractors can use AI tools today to save time, reduce errors, and make better decisions. The presentation will feature real-time voice interactions with AI, custom GPT tools built specifically for contractors, and live examples using NotebookLM. Attendees will leave with practical, immediately applicable takeaways and a clearer understanding of how to start integrating AI into their workflows—safely and effectively.

Presenter:

Christopher D. Ling, AIA Forensic Architect, VERTEX LLC

Christopher D. Ling, AIA is leader of the Forensic division of VERTEX LLC, a leading forensic architecture and construction consulting firm.

A nationally recognized expert in forensic analysis and the architect's standard of care, Chris has served as an expert witness on hundreds of construction defect and professional liability cases. His firm integrates technology & AI into forensic and construction workflows to increase precision and efficiency. Chris is also the bestselling author of The Architect's Standard of Care: A Forensic Analysis and a frequent speaker on technology's evolving role in design and construction.
